

Business Focused IT Consultants

Welcome to SDLC Partners

You know that the system development life cycle is the foundation for information systems development. Working as a problem solving roadmap, it enables organizations to move predictably as the business evolves. At SDLC Partners, we felt so strongly about this process that we included it in our name. And, at SDLC, you'll find that we truly believe in solving problems with a systematic approach.

Our Experience...

SDLC's principals have over 30 years of combined experience in the IT industry providing technology solutions to client business challenges. Throughout this experience, we've found that PEOPLE are key to project success. With this knowledge, we'll work with you to deliver the appropriate blend of people, process and technology to reach your required results.

SDLC Partners provides seamless integration with your IT department. We can function as mentors to your staff working with them and guiding them through a particular project; handle complete project outsourcing; or, simply provide you with a knowledgeable resource on an as-needed basis.

Our Full Range of IT Services Includes:

- Portal/Dashboard Strategy and Development
- Custom Development and Support for Web Based and Legacy Applications
- Enterprise Application Integration (EAI) and SOA Execution
- End User Reporting and Business Analytics
- Business Analysis and Requirements Gathering - (Rational Unified Process) Mentoring
- QA Testing
- In Source, Outsource, Local Source or Co-Source Delivery Models

Why We're Different...

Our unique approach to business makes us stand out from other firms.

We're more than an IT consulting company...we're a partner with your organization and a mentor to your staff.

We firmly believe that once we team with your organization, you'll find increased efficiency and improved quality of your application and/or systems development. At SDLC, principals will have an active role in all client projects and relationships. And, when we work with an organization, we take the time to learn your business and your specific goals so that we can provide the most effective technology solutions for you. Through this relationship, we believe that you'll benefit from a savings in both money and time.

Our Mission...

To service clients with innovative solutions utilizing a strategic approach to their technology concerns.

SDLC Partners...Ready to Assist You

We're prepared to provide the support you need to meet your IT demands.
