FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

SDLC Partners expands operations by adding downtown Pittsburgh location

PITTSBURGH (September 27, 2011) – SDLC Partners, a Monroeville-based business and technology consulting firm, will expand its operations in September by opening a new office in Three Gateway Center in downtown Pittsburgh.

“We are very excited to open our solution center in downtown Pittsburgh,” said Scott Barnyak, one of the firm’s principal partners. “The SDLC Solution Center leverages our proven business and technology delivery experience to provide clients a competitive onshore option that can enhance their IT delivery capability in the areas of custom web and mobile development, outsourced testing, and next generation business intelligence.”

Since it was first created in 2004, SDLC has emerged as one of the region’s fastest growing technology firms, expanding its workforce from five employees to more than 190. With SDLC’s continued growth, the new location will help service local and regional customers.

“We remain very committed to driving growth in the western Pennsylvania market and we believe our new Solution Center in downtown will play a key role,” said Chris Simchick. “We have identified several thrusts for this center; one being the retention of talent in the Pittsburgh Market while creating exciting partnering opportunities with our clients.”

Business collaborations have been a critical component to SDLC’s success. In recent years, Highmark Inc. has partnered with SDLC on a variety of initiatives such as the “Community Sourcing Program,” which was designed to connect college graduates to the job market and provide SDLC’s customers another option to manage costs.

Highmark has also utilized SDLC’s expertise to help improve its self-service Web portals, which were developed to enhance the experience associated with the business transactions Highmark has with its customers.

“Our partnership with SDLC Partners has helped generate more jobs as well as sustain economic vitality for our local communities,” said Ken Melani, M.D., Highmark president and chief executive officer.

SDLC will initially occupy 4000 square feet of office space in Three Gateway Center, and house some 40+ employees downtown.
